Community update on heating at the community centre

There have been ongoing issues at the Community Centre with the Wi-Fi connection. This in turn has caused the HIVE heating system that was newly installed to go offline on several occasions. As a result, the heating will not come on as scheduled. Unless the caretaker or Council members are made aware that there is a problem at the time of a booked session then they are unable to call and resolve the issue.

The Community Council have looked at the various options to improve the quality of the Wi-Fi and installed a booster. However, this has not improved the situation. As a result, Councillors Andrew Tobin and Mike Smith have undertaken work at the community centre to move the original router to improve the signal strength, as the quality of the signal is poor at the building. The Community Council would like to thank them for giving of their time freely. Hopefully this will resolve the matter.

Please, if you have an issue on arrival at the community centre call the caretaker Emma on 07849248385 or Councillor Patricia Oliver on 07789 191627 and they will arrange for someone to call and get the heating on.

The names and contact details of all Community Council members are available on the Community Council Web Page and RCTCBC website. All of whom are volunteers and unpaid. Of course, any resident is welcome to attend a Community Council Meeting which are held on the second Monday of every month and to view the accounts which includes grant funding to Community Groups within the Rhigos Boundary.

All Community Groups are charged to Hire the community centre because of a Wales Audit directive. To assist Community Groups, grants to cover this cost have been made available from both Solar farms within Rhigos.

Applications for grant funding can be found on the Community Council website or from the Community Council Clerk.
